

All Because

By Andrew Sullivan - 2010 curled up on the couch, no point in going out this rain is falling faster than a roller coaster on a holiday and now you're falling fast asleep, hair in your face and still in jeans this love we have is greater than the sweetest dream, and it's clear to me that

CHORUS

I am the most fortunate man the world's ever seen

I have all that I need and now I am complete all because I have you like a lily in bloom you come across like sweet perfume and when i'm here lying right next to you, what can i do it seems that you and me make a lovely melody and let it go down in history that it was plain to see that