

Undeniably Happy
By Andrew Sullivan - 2010

Something is happening here
And it's kind of mysterious, it's got me delirious
And I don't know how you work your magic like you do

The problem is it's very clear that I
Can't hide the way my cheeks turn ruby red when you are near
And I fear that all my inner secrets might find themselves revealed
There's no way for you to possibly ever second guess it that

You make me undeniably happy
You make me want to give this secret away
And I'll do whatever it takes
To be with you again

Before I go on just let me say
That you move like a symphony, your rhythm has an effect on me
And I don't know how you work your magic like you do

If you don't know if you like these words you hear
I hope you find a way to make up your mind
And find yourself right by my side
And now all of my inner secrets are making themselves revealed
There's no way for you to possibly ever second guess it that

You make me undeniably happy
You make me want to give this secret away
And I'll do whatever it takes
And I'll do whatever it takes

You make me undeniably happy, and you make me
You make we want to give this secret away
Give this secret away
Give this secret away
Give this secret away
Oh I hope that I do not give this secret away
